“There are so many opportunities for hygienists with bachelor’s degrees.”

LYDIA DANIEL

Class of 2018 — First Cohort Graduate

Lydia is the first in her family to graduate college. She chose dental hygiene because it offered an affordable path to a good career that would support the life she desires. It has flexible hours and having a bachelor’s degree opens the door to more career possibilities in the future, she said, such as being a representative of a dental company or teaching.

JENNY MY NU NGUYEN
Class of 2018 — First Cohort Graduate

“The dental hygiene program has changed my life. I have seen how much I can do beyond my limitations. It’s been hard but I have passed through to graduate with honors.”

Nguyen, 25, never expected to become the first in her family to earn a bachelor’s degree. In fact, she hadn’t expected to go to college at all before she and her mother and siblings immigrated to the Bay Area a decade ago. She said she loves the dental hygiene program because she loves learning about oral health and seeing the difference her work can make in people’s lives.

The program has helped make her a stronger person, Nguyen said. It helped her learn how to transcend shyness and cultural reserve to work as part of a team and interact with patients so she can make them feel comfortable. It also helped her become more independent. Although that is not a typical attribute for the youngest daughter in a traditional Vietnamese family, she said, her family is proud of her.
