PLANNING & RESOURCE ALLOCATION CYCLES

Planning

The Foothill-De Anza Community College District engages in a seven year planning cycle. This cycle is organized such that 1) the primary planning documents of the district and colleges inform each other; 2) ample time is given for each of these planning documents to be refreshed and revised within the cycle; and 3) these planning documents will inform the accreditation self-study reports of each college.

Resource Allocation

The resource allocation model used by Foothill-De Anza is a strong college-centered model. Nevertheless, prior to resources being allocated to the colleges, district governance and leadership groups review and provide feedback with input from various constituency groups. Resource allocation and expenditures are also reviewed at the end of the cycle.
