Lecture Series VI: Indigenous People's Day 10 - 11:30 AM
This year we will celebrate Indigenous People's Day by recognizing Indigenous American nations and traditions from Alaska, to Chile, and Hawaii. While we will focus on the cultures, belief systems, and practices that have enabled our people to survive for the past 500 years, it's important that we also examine the politics of oppression and resistance. We will do this through stories, poetry, and music.
