Service Leadership Report Form

Service leadership can take many different forms. A student can volunteer to serve meals at a shelter or help organize informational sessions on social justice issues, but a student could also consider things they do at work or at home as service leadership. For example, if someone needs to take a parent or grandparent to chemo or dialysis sessions, that also counts as service leadership.

We want honors students to develop their soft skills in addition to their academic ones. We want them to be able to collaborate and work with others in addition to developing empathy and compassion.

In order to complete the service leadership requirement, please return the completed form along with the Honors Scholar application to the Honors office (1960).

Name of Service: _____

On a word processed document, please write a short description (500 words or fewer) of your service, including what knowledge, skills, experience, personal growth, enjoyment, or anything else you gained from the experience. Avoid general descriptions. Describe how you were before doing this service to where you are now. Be honest and genuine.

Remember: Information you include may be helpful for future letters of recommendation. Your description should reflect the time and effort that you put into writing this. Please keep a copy of this form for your own records.
